

Jap Fleet Of 26 Vessels And 129 Planes At Rabaul Blown Up By Allies

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 4 (AP)—Allied air might, dispersed in strength at bases from which to strike hard and swiftly, has blasted into twisted hulks the warships and transports Japan massed at Rabaul to counter-smash the northern Solomons invasion.

In a dazzling display of diversified power, General MacArthur's big bomber force sank three destroyers and eight large merchantmen or transports at Rabaul Tuesday and ripped open the hull of a heavy cruiser while planes of Adm. William F. Halsey ranged the length of embattled Bougainville, blowing new holes in its unusable airfield.

Halsey's units also dived and swirled in day long battles to keep Japanese planes away from the American Marines driving enemy soldiers back into the jungles on Bougainville's west coast.

Down 129 Planes
In all these operations, nearly 100,000 tons of Japanese shipping were sunk or damaged, 129 enemy planes were destroyed or crippled and more than 200 tons of explosives tore into the enemy's power to resist.

Under such formidable air cover, the drive to oust the Japanese from the rest of the Solomons and lunge at Rabaul gained ground. The Marines, killing more than 135 Japs at a cost of about 50 of their own men, expanded the beachhead won Monday at Empress Augusta bay on Bougainville.

Admiral Halsey jubilantly called the operations "the flexing springboard for the longer jumps ahead." He declared the Allies now are able to hit harder, faster, more often and in more places than the Japanese ever dared think possible and that appearance of the Japanese fleet would bring nearer the day for the "march through Tokyo."

Devastating Smash
Tuesday's Rabaul smash was devastating. More than 150 Mitchells and Lightnings swept in, the bombers as low as the tops of ships' masts, to strike for 45 minutes at vessels the Japanese had rushed down from Truk for counter-invasion action.

Twenty-six ships, nearly every one in Rabaul's huge harbor, either were sunk or damaged. Fifty thousand tons were represented in the three destroyers, eight large merchant ships and four small coastal vessels sunk. One heavy cruiser was left listing with a large hole in the hull. A second took a direct hit. Seven large merchant vessels, aggregating 30,000 tons, an 8,000-ton tanker and another of 6,000 tons were knocked out of action.

Fierce Resistance
Japanese resistance was fierce, both by 150 fighters and by anti-aircraft batteries. Despite that the score was at least 85 to 19 in favor of the Allies. Lightnings shot down at least 41 of the interceptors and the Mitchells probably got 10 more. The Mitchells bagged at least 26 and possibly 39 in the air in addition to destroying 18 parked planes.

Nine Mitchells and 10 Lightnings were lost but three bomber crews and two fighter pilots were saved.

ASK XMAS MAIL FOR NOVEMBER

Gettysburgians were urged today by Acting Postmaster Lawrence E. Oyer to make November the Christmas mailing month.

"Christmas gifts, generally, must be mailed in November," Mr. Oyer said. "The war has dislocated the Christmas mailing season so that this year November is the time for mailing Christmas gifts and cards. Gifts may be marked 'Do not open until Christmas.'"

Mr. Oyer pointed out that the post office department has handled the Christmas mail for the armed forces overseas and added: "We now face the tremendous task of receiving, transporting and delivering on time the vast volume of Christmas mail for people at home."

"There can be no assurance," he said, "in view of the unavoidable handicaps of war, that gifts and cards mailed in the weeks immediately preceding Christmas will be delivered on time. Facilities simply are not available for transporting and delivering in the last three weeks before Christmas, the tremendous quantities of mail we moved in that period in previous years."

"The only way in which deliveries of Christmas mail can be made on time is by spreading the mailings over a longer period of time."

PRAISE COUNTY FOR R. C. BLOOD DONOR ACTIVITY

Residents of Gettysburg, Aspers, Arendtsville, Biglerville, Bonneauville, East Berlin, Fairfield, New Oxford, Cashtown, McKnightstown, Ottantina and Barlow were praised for their part in the Red Cross blood donor campaign as the Harrisburg area service marked its first anniversary.

One of the major factors which enabled the area to meet its quota in the four million pints of blood requested by the Army and Navy for processing into dried plasma in 1943 was the "magnificent response of the people in the communities visited by the mobile blood donor units," Hugh K. Duffield, Chapter chairman, said today.

Give 1,114 Pints Here

"Of the 62,000 pints of blood donated to the armed forces through the Red Cross in this area, 38,953 pints were collected by the mobile units which visited the communities where donors were enlisted by the local Red Cross chapters," Mr. Duffield said.

Radford H. Lippy, Adams county Blood Donor Service chairman, said today that during the ten visits to Gettysburg by the mobile units from Harrisburg, 1,114 pints of blood were given. He added: "Today that same blood, transformed into life-saving golden plasma by the laboratories which process the blood for the armed forces, may very well be flowing in the veins of our brave fighting men."

Mr. Duffield praised the Gettysburg chapter for its part in arranging for the blood donations here under Mr. Lippy's direction.

Next Visit Here Nov. 26

"We are certain that this co-operation extended us by the people of Gettysburg and Adams county will continue in the future. We must not only maintain our quotas but must be prepared to meet any increased requests from the Army and Navy which may result as the war spreads," he declared.

The mobile blood donor unit will return to Gettysburg, Friday, November 26, when another 150 pints of blood will be sought for the armed forces. Seven visits are already scheduled for the coming eight months, Mr. Lippy announced.

Red Cross chapters in 17 other towns and cities in this part of the state contributed blood through the Harrisburg center.

Legionnaires Seek Larger Membership

Legion posts in the York-Adams-Franklin district will be seeking 2,582 members this year, about 12 percent more than the 2,308 secured during the membership campaign last year, District Commander Stanton D. House said today. The membership goal was set by national officials of the Legion.

World War II members are expected to swell the ranks of the Legion throughout the state to 100,000 this year, with all local posts securing returning second World War vets. A number have joined the Lentz post here and the Biglerville post will induce a number of Second World War men this evening.

Rehabilitation of returned soldiers and post-war plans will be stressed in the district and state this year, the district commander said, in stating that reports from the various posts of activities have been "very encouraging so far."

Essential Vehicles Are Allowed Tires

To keep in operation the 340,000 commercial motor vehicles which deliver medical supplies, drugs, laundry, dry cleaning (apparel only) and essential foods to millions of American homes, the OPA announced that these vehicles are now eligible to receive used passenger tires and used truck tires of sizes smaller than 7.50-20 to replace tires no longer serviceable.

Incidental delivery of other commodities will be permitted if this does not require the vehicle to depart from its normal route or schedule, it was explained at the district OPA office. Commercial vehicles used exclusively by medical or dental laboratories will also be eligible to receive used tires.

At present, commercial vehicles delivering goods to the ultimate consumer are ineligible for tires unless they are used entirely to deliver ice, fuel, or milk, or are common carriers.

BELIEVE TAYLOR WAS KILLED IN SALERNO ACTION

Harold Robert Taylor, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Taylor, Biglerville R. 1, was killed in action when the Nazis bombed the light cruiser Savannah off Salerno, Taylor's parents believe since the Navy announcement Tuesday that the Savannah was hit and some of the members of its crew were killed and wounded.

The Savannah was Taylor's ship. Last Wednesday the Taylors received a telegram from the Navy department stating that their son had been "killed in action" and had been buried at sea. The date of his death was not given and Tuesday's Navy announcement of the bombing of the Savannah did not mention the date of the attack.

The Navy statement said the Savannah had been bombed off Salerno, Italy, while on a "covering" job in support of landing troops. It was operating with the heavier cruisers Boise and Philadelphia.

Uncle Killed in '18

"The bomb landed atop the gun turret and started a fire that was brought under control in 20 minutes while Navy doctors treated the wounded. The Savannah "carried on and continued to operate effectively," the announcement said. Parents of the dead crew members have been notified, the Navy stated.

Word of young Taylor's death reached his home a year and a day after he entered Navy service and almost exactly 25 years after his uncle, Harry M. Taylor, was killed in action in France in World War I.

Harry Taylor was killed in France October 25, 1918, two weeks before the Armistice. He was attached to a medical unit of a machine gun battalion and was assigned to give first aid to front line casualties. He was a former school teacher in the county and had been in the service for a little more than a year. He went overseas in the spring of 1918. He was 26.

Italian King To Study Abdication

Naples, Nov. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—King Vittorio Emanuele arrived incognito today from Brindisi and although the purpose of his visit is unknown it was believed he would attempt to confer with Count Carlo Sforza and other leaders who favor his abdication as the first step toward solving Italy's political dilemma.

An unimpeachable informant disclosed that Sforza, former Italian foreign minister, had declined to see the King at Brindisi after arriving in Italy from the United States.

This informant said the monarch had sent emissaries to the count to tell him the King wished to grant him an audience. Sforza, however, was said to have declined in virtually an unprecedented action, giving as his excuse his plan to leave immediately for Naples.

Persons close to Sforza said he is adamant on the question of the King's abdication. He takes the position the King betrayed the nation in permitting the rise of fascism and that only the withdrawal of the sovereign as well as Crown Prince Umberto can pave the way to rejuvenation of the country.

WAR FUND HAS $5,867; ASK FOR FINAL REPORTS

Contributions to the Adams County War Fund neared the $6,000 mark today with $5,867.68 reported in the hands of the treasurer, Mrs. Ellen Tipton Buehler. No reports have been received so far from a number of Gettysburg solicitors and from 24 towns in the county, Mrs. Buehler said, in urging that solicitors send in what they have to date.

Gettysburg solicitors turned in $195.30 while county solicitors forwarded $567.53 Wednesday, it was stated. Mrs. J. H. A. Boresis solicited $65.50 from York street while Mrs. F. B. Biglerville Tops '42 Mark

Klinefelter, Mrs. Robert Wentz, Mrs. Glenn Crist and Mrs. Donald Watson were among the solicitors on the committee.

The $358 from Biglerville was more than $80 over the amount collected there last year when $278.25 was turned in from the upper county community.

All solicitors were urged today by Chairman Paul A. Kinsey to be sure to send in their reports to the treasurer before the end of the week so that a final report may be prepared.

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Nov. 4 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army dashed forward on a 40-mile front for gains of five to eight miles on the western Italian sector, advancing to within 85 miles of Rome and throwing the enemy back in a steady retreat across the broad Garigliano river valley, Allied headquarters announced today.

Gen. Sir. Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army also advanced in nearly all sectors, marching up the Botano-Isernia road and battering its way into Castelpetroso, less than seven miles southeast of Isernia, the mountain highway hub in the center of Marshal Erwin Rommel's present defense line.

Break Nazi's Last Strongholds

Gen. Clark's British and Americans swept the Germans from their last strongholds around Massico ridge, the massive anchor of the strongly fortified mountain line which the Germans apparently hoped to hold until winter, and brushed them out of their last footholds on lofty San Croce mountain to the northeast.

At the end of the day yesterday, by steadily rooting out nests of resistance, Clark's warriors were astride the main coastal road to Rome at a point beyond Sessa Aurunca, between the two mountains.

In addition to Sessa Aurunca, the pursuing British and Americans also had occupied Roccamonfina, five miles northwest of Teano at the foot of San Croce, and Presenzano, northwest of San Croce and only five miles southeast of Mignano.

The Eighth Army of Montgomery forced new crossings of the Trigno river on the Adriatic front, but a savage battle raged around its original bridgehead at the railway station of San Salvo where the Nazis threw tanks and artillery into repeated attempts to hurl the British back over the barrier.

U. S. Sub Toll Of Jap Ships Is 487

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Sinking of ten Japanese merchantmen and damaging of three others by American submarines was reported by the Navy today, bringing to 487 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged by undersea craft.

The Navy's communique also reported the sinking of a 1,000-ton freighter by a Navy reconnaissance plane off the Ocean Island, 750 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

Among the ships sunk, all of them in use in supplying Japanese bases, were six freighters, a large cargo transport and two tankers. The damaged vessels included two more freighters and a tanker.

The area in which the submarines operated was not disclosed but previous Navy reports have said submarines were operating off the coast of the Japanese mainland.

JAPS FORMING BLOC TO FIGHT "WHITE RACES"

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Associated Press

Japanese militarists (the real rulers of Nippon) are said by competent observers in the Orient to recognize that they will lose this war but are hoping to secure a liberal peace and meantime to create an Asiatic bloc of countries which they can lead against the white races twenty-five years hence.

That sounds fantastic, but it isn't. It fits in with the signs of the times, and represents a menace even more deadly than Prussian militarism, because it's calculated to pit the east against the west—a racial conflict.

My own observations in the east have convinced me of that. There's real danger of the formation of an Asiatic bloc. The Japs are working the "big brother" game rather smartly in spots, as witness Burma and Thailand (Siam) which actually are fighting for the Mikado.

Plan Next War

Fresh word of this trend has been brought out of a Jap internment camp in the Philippines by Raymond P. Cronin, who was chief of The Associated Press Bureau in Manila when the Nipponese invaded the island. Cronin is on the exchange ship Gripsholm which has reached South Africa enroute to America.

The AP correspondent says his informants express the belief that Jap military men in the field are attempting to sow the seeds of brotherhood among the Asiatic races in preparation for the next war. A similar report comes from another AP correspondent, Russell Brines, who also is on the Gripsholm after nearly two years internment in Shanghai and Manila.

Brines reports that the Jap militarists are conducting an extensive propaganda campaign among their people to sell the idea of protecting Asia against British-American "imperialism." A lot of this "imperialistic" talk sticks, too, for I found it there myself.

"Fight To Finish"

Both Cronin and Brines believe the Japanese military machine is capable of waging a long, hard war and intends to fight to a finish. While the leaders recognize that they must surrender ultimately, this fact is being kept from the Japanese people, whose morale appears to be good. The militarists hope that the peace terms will leave Japan a first class power, and that they can create an anti-western bloc which will carry on under Tokyo's leadership.

This Japanese effort to establish an Asiatic bloc isn't a thing to be brushed aside lightly, because we can't say in advance that victory by arms over the Mikado's forces will eliminate the political danger. The Japs are treading circumspectly, and we can see the danger signals in such places as Burma and Siam, which apparently accept Jap leadership willingly.

There are other disquieting factors in the situation. You know, we shouldn't fool ourselves into believing that all the peoples of the Orient are in love with either America or Britain. A lot of folk out there don't like us.

Four Freedoms

As I've reported in this column previously, there is a widespread feeling in the Orient that the Four Freedoms and the Atlantic Charter aren't intended for the peoples of the East at all, but only for the West. Even China, our ally, has been much concerned over this, as has neighboring India.

The situation has been complicated by India's bitterness over the political quarrel with Britain, an imbroglio in which high Chinese personalities sympathize with India. Brines says Shanghai's controlled newspapers are devoting great space to the Indian Subhas Chandra Bose and his drive for a "new national Indian army," which Bose says will "march to New Delhi and liberate India with Japan's benevolent support." Bose fled India in 1940 with sedition charges against him, and the Japs have been trying through him to rally Indians to Nippon's cause.

Stir India Unrest

From my own investigation in India I know that day and night the Nipponese are pouring a flood of anti-British propaganda into that country with the idea of capitalizing the political crisis. Lush promises of "freedom" are being made by Tokyo, and neighboring Burma and the Philippines are being pointed to as examples of countries which have won their independence through Japanese beneficence.

Both China and India want to be included among the United Nations—but the necessity of removing all suspicions regarding the Western Allies is quite apparent. It's doubly so when one stops to consider that these two vast countries together have a population of some 900,000,000, which is close to half that of the whole world.

Altoona, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—Attorney Charles M. Kurtz, who has been "walking around a bit" daily at his home in Sinking Valley ten miles east of Altoona since the hunting season opened, got his reward yesterday—a 23-pound gray fox.

Blocks Post-War Compromise Move

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senator Langer (R-ND) blocked efforts of Senate leaders to bring a compromise post-war policy resolution, endorsing creating of an international peace organization and incorporating a significant part of the Moscow four-power declaration, to a final vote today.

When Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the foreign relations committee asked unanimous consent to a final vote at 4:30 p. m., Langer arose to object.

The North Dakotan said, however, he would not oppose a vote tomorrow and Republican Leader McNary (Ore.) said he thought the Senate could dispose of the measure tomorrow afternoon.

Langer gave no explanation of his objection to an earlier test. Seven senators already had indicated their desire to speak.

OUTLINE STATE LABOR SUPPLY

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The present and potential labor supply for Pennsylvania war industries was outlined for a House Appropriations subcommittee by the War Manpower Commission during hearings on the first supplemental national defense appropriation bill for 1944.

The commission classified the state's important labor market areas in four classifications ranging from areas of acute labor shortages to areas where there are potential labor surpluses.

The commission's list:

Group 1, area of current acute labor shortage: Allentown.

Group 2, areas of labor stringency and those anticipating a labor shortage within six months: Alliquippa, Chambersburg, Erie, Harrisburg, Lancaster, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Reading-Pottstown.

Group 3, Areas in which a slight labor surplus will remain after six months: Lebanon, New Castle, Washington and York.

Group 4, areas in which a substantial labor surplus will remain after six months: Altoona, Berwick, Johnstown, Scranton and Williamsport.

COLOGNE AND DUESSELDORF BOMBED AGAIN

London, Nov. 4 (AP)—A great fleet of RAF heavy bombers hammered the German industrial cities of Duesseldorf and Cologne last night in a swift sequel to a smashing daylight attack on Wilhelmshaven by the largest force of American aircraft ever thrown against the Reich.

The main blow was concentrated on Duesseldorf, making that big Ruhr armament center probably the world's most heavily bombed city next to Hamburg, while a diversionary assault by a smaller force was made on Cologne on the Rhine. Mosquitoes also bombed objectives in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Nineteen aircraft were lost in the night's operations, which included minelaying in German waters and intruder patrols over targets in France and the Low Countries. Four enemy aircraft were destroyed by the bombers.

Report 1,000 Killed

Dispatches from Stockholm quoted the Social Democrats as saying more than 1,000 persons were killed in Tuesday's attack by the United States heavy bombers based in the Mediterranean theatre on Wiener Neustadt, Austria.

The size of previous attacks on Duesseldorf, yesterday's record American strike at Wilhelmshaven and the fact that the RAF has had two weeks of bad weather in which to prepare last night's offensive hinted that it may have been the greatest effort yet.

The steel manufacturing center of 500,000 received a packet of 2,000 long tons of explosives in its next to last raid on May 23 and on June 11 was hit by the RAF's biggest heavy bomber force up to that time.

The Air Ministry described the new attack as concentrated and effective, and a greatly weakened German defense was indicated in the loss of only 19 raiding aircraft engaged in that and the other operations.

"Big Four" City

Duesseldorf, Germany's third ranking inland port is the site of the great Rheinstahl iron and steel works, almost comparable to Krupp at Essen, as well as Vereinigte Stahlwerke, one of Germany's "Big Four" industrial outfits.

Previously attacked 122 times, Cologne has many vital war targets, including a synthetic oil plant and Diesel engine factory.

In the RAF's last large scale operation, the night of October 22, the main force went to Kassel where more than 1,500 tons of explosives started great fires which raged for more than a week. Since then fog and rain had prevented both the RAF and USAAF from resuming their big combined day and night raids.

Great Armada

Yesterday, however, great armadas of American planes—estimated unofficially to total more than 1,000 including fighters—took advantage of the weather break and resumed the offensive. The North sea port and naval base of Wilhelmshaven was the chief target of the Fortresses and Liberators. They were escorted all the way by Thunderbolts and Lightnings.

The number of heavy bombers participating was not disclosed, but the largest previous reported American heavy operation involved 400 planes, making it appear that 500 or more were sent against Wilhelmshaven. Five heavy bombers and two fighters were lost.

CIO Says Congress Is Failing People

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Congress of Industrial Organizations thinks the United States Congress has failed to "reflect the aspirations of the American people."

The charge was made in a resolution passed at the National CIO convention here yesterday, which urged the national legislators to "get into the war with both feet."

The delegates urged that Congress give "concrete evidence" of its intention to stabilize food prices. They also asked the Senate not to "tolerate" filibusters by southern members on the poll tax issue.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes was urged in another resolution to require all war plants to provide eating facilities for workers.

350 Steel Workers In Work Stoppage

Brackenridge, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—A work stoppage by 350 electric furnace department employees in the Allegheny-Ludlum Steel corporation plant today followed the Regional War Labor board's rejection of the worker's wage adjustment demands.

A spokesman for the CIO United Steelworkers of America local said no union statement could be made until the return of Regional Director William J. Hart from the CIO convention in Philadelphia.

A company spokesman said the walkout, which began last night, is blamed by the workers on dissatisfaction with the RWLB decision which rejected a request for abandonment of an incentive pay plan for a straight hourly rate at the present wage level.

OWI CREDITED WITH WINNING ITALIAN FLEET

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—A story of how the Office of War Information (OWI) played a part in winning the Italian fleet over to the Allies was unfolded today in a House Appropriations Committee. The incident, together with OWI endorsement by army chiefs, prompted approval of a request for $5,000,000 additional funds.

Some congressional disapproval of OWI is expected however to bring on a battle over the allotment when it reaches the floor of the House.

In approving the allotment, the committee declared that propaganda and psychological warfare had demonstrated it could save lives and shorten the war.

OWI Work Endorsed

Quoting freely from letters of endorsement of OWI's work from Chief of Staff George C. Marshall and Lieut. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, George S. Patton and Jacob L. Devers, the committee told congress in a formal report that:

"The committee is not willing to assume any responsibility for delaying, hampering, or impeding the war effort or failing to provide any instrumentality or funds that will save the lives of American soldiers or sailors, shorten the war and lessen its cost. Failure to provide these funds would have that effect."

At one point in the report, the committee said that "more than 80 per cent of the German and Italian prisoners captured in Sicily admit being impelled to give up by propaganda leaflets and broadcasts."

How OWI helped persuade the Italian fleet to come over to the side of the United Nations was related to the committee in executive session by Robert E. Sherwood, director of the agency's overseas division.

Appeal To Fleet

"When the Italian government surrendered," Sherwood said, "it was obviously highly desirable to persuade the Italian Navy to come over to our side, rather than to scuttle their ships or turn them over to the Germans."

"A message to the Italian fleet was drafted. It was to be broadcast over the United Nations radio in Algiers, but hopes for success were not too high inasmuch as there was a strict prohibition on the Italian ships against listening to foreign radio stations."

"The problem was solved by an OWI engineer," he said, "he managed to shift the transmitter in Algiers to an international distress frequency, to which all Naval vessels of all nations are listening at all times. The special message to the Italian fleet was broadcast on that frequency x x x every 15 minutes for many hours. It got through."

PROUD GERMAN ARMY ROUTED BY MAD REDS

London, Nov. 4 (AP)—The battered remnants of Field Marshal Von Mannstein's once proud army of the Ukraine are fast being turned into a disorganized war-weary mob in their flight across the marshy Nogais steppes of southern Russia toward the Bug river defense line, Russian advices indicated today.

Paced by hard-riding, sabre-wielding Cossack cavalrymen, Red Army mobile columns were slashing at the heels of the retreating enemy, and today were believed to be nearing the eastern outskirts of Kherson, Black sea port at the mouth of the Dnieper river. Yesterday, a Moscow communique said, they stormed and captured Bolshoi-Kapany, on the Kherson-Perekop railway, 21 miles east of Kherson and a scant 15 miles from the town of Aleshki, east bank bridgehead at the Kherson crossing.

Nazis Abandon Dead

Indications of the complete demoralization of the Germans were given by the Russian communique, which said the enemy was abandoning thousands of their dead and huge stores of war equipment as they poured across the Dnieper river to the west.

The swift-charging Cossacks and Red Army motorized columns were pictured as cutting through the Germans as they streamed back from the Ukraine while Soviet planes pounded the Nazis unceasingly from the air. Carnage was especially heavy at the Dnieper crossings leading to Kherson, the Moscow bulletin said.

Yesterday's advance of 10 miles netted the Red Army 80 towns in the steppe region between the Dnieper and Karkinit bay on the Black sea, Moscow said. More than 3,000 Germans were reported killed in this sector alone, including one entire Nazi regiment.

Reds Seize Loot

Another 1,500 enemy troops were slain inside the Dnieper bend to the north, where Red Army columns plunging southwest of Dnepropetrovsk captured seven villages, rounded up hundreds of prisoners and huge dumps of tanks, guns and other war gear, the Soviet bulletin declared. Nazi counter attacks were beaten back on all parts of the advance.

For the second straight day the Russian communique last night made no mention of fighting inside the Crimea.

The Russians also made no mention of the situation at Kriovi Rog, Dnieper bend mining center, where heavy fighting has been raging for days.

Berwick Strikers Told To Return

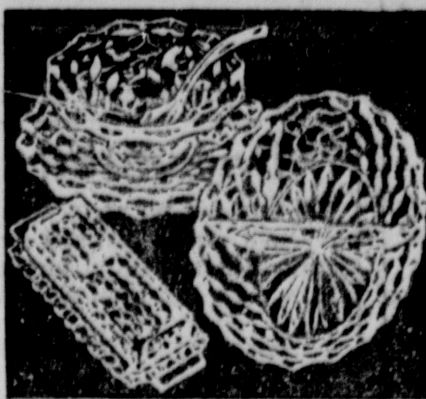

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Regional War Labor board has ordered some 1,500 to 2,000 workers to return to work immediately at the American Car and Foundry company, Berwick, Pa., pending settlement of a dispute.

Eli Rock, acting director of the RWLB Disputes division, said in a telegram yesterday, "Peaceful procedures now exist for the settlement of all labor disputes."

chief of the Allied Mediterranean fleet, chucked and said to his chief of staff: "tell General McClure (Brig. Gen. Robert A. McClure, in charge of psychological warfare for the Allied forces in North Africa) that they've accomplished in one day with propaganda what I've been trying to do for three years with the Navy."

THREE SENIORS IN FINAL GRID GAME FRIDAY

Three seniors will be playing their final football game in Maroon and White Friday night when Gettysburg and Mechanicsburg high clash here in a Southern Pennsylvania conference game which will bring the Maroons' season to a finish.

Although there are but three seniors on Coach Mel Dry's squad it is probable that several other squad members will be playing their final game. One back expects his draft call in the near future while it is reported several others are contemplating enlisting.

The seniors who will be making their final appearance are Sammy Weaver and Charley Weaver, tackles, and William Troxell, end.

To fans and players alike the end of the season will not be unpleasant. The Maroons have dropped all six of their games played to date and the outlook for Friday, while brighter than those of the last two weeks, is far from promising.

Hard Battles

Just as they have done in each game this year, the Maroons will be in there giving their best despite the odds. Whatever may be said about the 1943 team, it battled hard and gamely in each contest and promises to wage an even scrappier fight in the season's final.

Coach Mel Dry announced today that there would be little change in the lineup to face Mechanicsburg. Troxell will pair off with Thrush at ends; the Weaver boys will be at tackles; Epley and Sanders, guards; Hess, center; Timbers, S. Dorsey, Little and Shaner, backs.

Mechanicsburg has played six games to date, winning three, tying two and losing one. John Harris high reserves were defeated 19-0 in the season's opener and then a 6-6 tie was played with Hershey. Coach Grey Furey's team lost a 13-7 decision to Hanover and followed with a 9-0 victory over New Cumberland and 14-0 verdict over Waynesboro. Last Friday Scotland and Mechanicsburg battled to a scoreless tie.

Visitor's Lineup

Mechanicsburg's probable starting outfit will include: Dixon and Kreitzer, ends; Ward and Rider, tackles; Mann and Rupp, guards; House, center; Keetz, quarterback; Engle and Hertzler, halfbacks, and Spahr, fullback.

MORE PROTESTS ON TRI-COUNTY DEER SEASON

Harrisburg, Nov. 4 (AP)—Protests of northern Pennsylvania sportsmen against an antlerless deer season next month gained volume today, with the Game Commission reporting receipt of petitions to call off the season in Clinton, Potter and Cameron counties.

Hunters' organizations, contending out-of-county sportsmen are receiving most of the $1 special permits to the exclusion of residents, circulated the petitions under a game law provision which calls for abrogating a season in any county if half the licensed hunters call for that action.

"It now becomes the commission's duty to check these petitions to determine their validity," explained President Ross L. Leffler in a statement. If the season is nullified, fees will be returned or applicants given permits to hunt in other counties.

Claim Misunderstanding

Leffler said, "Withdrawals in writing are being made by many of those who signed the petitions," and added: "they claim their signatures were attached under a misunderstanding of the facts. One of the most common misleading statements was that the permits would all be obtained by residents of other counties."

He reported that 2,209 permits remain unassigned in Clinton county, 8,363 in Potter county and 1,713 in Cameron county. The quotas for Lycoming, Sullivan and Warren counties have been exhausted, while in McKean and Tioga counties, 6,195 and 3,180 permits, respectively, are available. The season has been set for December 13, 14 and 15.

"Crop damage continues in all these counties," Leffler declared. "In the eight counties declared open to antlerless deer more than 1,000 animals have been killed by farmers to date. Herds of 25 to 50 deer have been observed on numerous grain fields."

Prexy Says Texas Loop Should Play

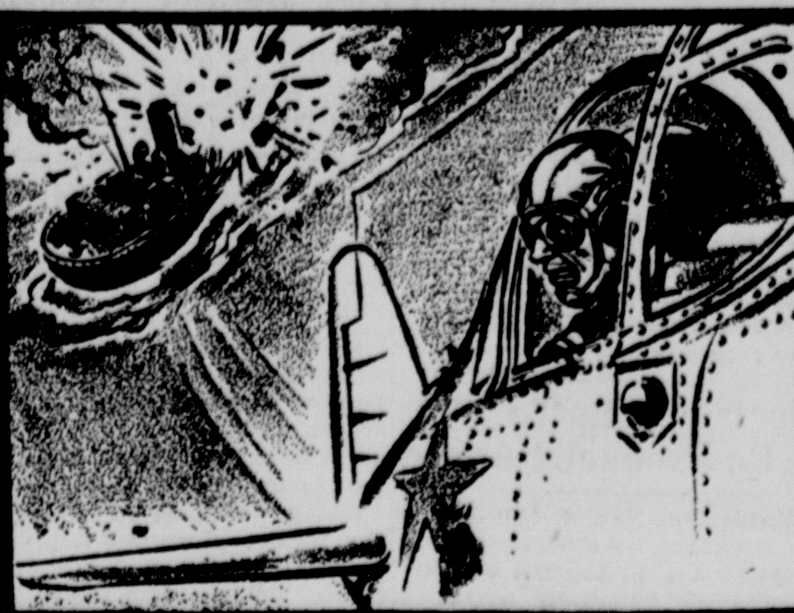

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 4 (AP)—President J. Alvin Gardner thinks his Texas league could—and should—resume baseball next season.

"I'm convinced the people want baseball and the league could operate successfully," he said. "There are enough old ball players, 4-F's, and youngsters to carry on."

He'll submit the question to the league's annual meeting next week.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

The South Pacific Aerial Exploits Cross has been awarded to First Lt. William P. Campbell, U. S. M. C., of Minneapolis for his solo bombing attack against five Jap transports and ten destroyers. While ship and shore batteries concentrated all their fire against him, filling the air with flak, he dive-bombed the ship formation, blasted a transport with a direct hit. The War Bond you buy today will help load bomb racks to shatter Jap supply lines.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Fights Last Night

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—It's all in the viewpoint: Last week Pitt's Clark Shaugnessy came out with the idea of increasing the yardage required for a first down in football from 10 to 15 yards to curb the offenses. . . . A few days later Harry Mahniken of Princeton suggested that six-man lines ought to be made compulsory on defense so as to give the offense a chance.

As far as we've heard, Frank Leahy hasn't found any fault with the rules as they are. . . . Hal Trosky, who has been out of baseball since 1941 because of chronic migraine, has returned to the active list. . . . maybe he figures two years of experience with headaches should put him in line for a manager's job.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Cell Barton, Camp Edwards (Mass.) coach, to Boston football writers: "Before I came here today I said to the players, 'Shall I go up there and tell them we are going to beat Harvard?' There were 35 at the table. Thirty-six hands shot into the air. The thirty-sixth belonged to me."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Credit an assist to Dud De Groot, Rochester university coach, on Sammy Baugh's new pro football passing records. It was De Groot, spotting from the stands, who saw that the Dodgers' defense was bunched and tipped Sammy to throw long passes instead of short ones.

Johnny Mize's setter dog, Jene-3, won the big stake in the St. Louis field trials last week-end. . . . Jimmy Jamieson, a good defense prospect who the Rangers have parked with the Rovers until they need him, won't have the troubles that many hockey players encounter crossing the Canadian border. . . . He's a full-blooded Cayuga Indian and members of his tribe are regarded as citizens of both the United States and Canada. . . . Boston football scribes are considering a Tufts-Boston college "Greater Boston championship" grid game as a war fund benefit. . . . The New York writers also expect to sponsor a game but plans aren't complete.

HOME TOWN STUFF

Jim White, Notre Dame's big tackle who is expected to do considerable damage to the Army line in Yankee stadium Saturday, should feel right at home there. . . . An Edgewater, New Jersey, boy, Jim was captain of the football, basketball and track teams at All Hallows prep in the Bronx and the grid team used to practice in Macombs Dam park, only a long Bertelli pass from the stadium.

ANOTHER ENGLE ON IT

When E. T. Bales of the Chattanooga, Tennessee, News-Free Press asked Joe Engle to explain why Branch Rickey first released Leo Durocher then re-hired him as Dodger manager, Joe remarked: "If a southern league owner pulled such a deal, the majors would rank it as nothing more than 'typical bush league,' but since I am a bush leaguer, the only thing I can say of the Brooklyn deal is that it is 'typical bush league.'"

SERVICE DEPT.

Staff Sgt. Charles R. Eby of Skokie, Illinois, who was wounded by AA fire over Libya in January, has to play golf every day at Miami Beach, Florida, as part of his rehabilitation training. And he'd rather talk about the birdie he made recently than about his war experiences. . . . Corp. Buck Erickson, who gets out the fifty-three-page sports section of the Camp Ellis, Illinois, News, prints a picture of two teams of Army nurses, garbed in coveralls and steel helmets, playing football for recreation while on bivouac training. . . . To prove it's no gag, the caption reads: "Eighteen of them went on this trip with the 39th Field Hospital." . . . Not as patients, we hope.

A's Lose Hurler On Induction Call

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics lost one player and gained another yesterday, when Pitcher Charles (Major) Bowles was inducted into the army and Connie Mack announced the signing of William H. Mills, Jr., varsity catcher at Holy Cross College last year.

Mack said he learned Bowles, up from Lancaster in the Interstate League, was drafted at Huntington, W. Va., yesterday.

EXPECT KENNA TO MAKE DEBUT AGAINST IRISH

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—Angelo Bertelli's leaving Notre Dame and making possible Johnny Lujack's quarterbacking has taken so much of the grid fans' attention that most of them have forgotten that Doug Kenna of Army virtually will make his debut when the Cadets and Irish collide in New York Saturday.

Like Lujack he has been no more than a substitute this season but it has been an injured knee, not the presence of a player with more talent, that has kept the Mississippi marvel bench-ridden.

In fact, Lt. Col. Earl Blaik, who coaches the Army football team, says unqualifiedly that Kenna "is the best back I ever have coached" and that he is the best ball carrier at West Point since the late Red Cagle.

Trick Knee Joint But a trick knee joint has caused him more trouble than rationing does a cook.

He played only briefly last year but was outstanding in the Cadets' final period drive against Navy. This year the joint has stopped him twice and he has played only 12 minutes, against Pennsylvania last week.

In that brief appearance he showed that he knew what pass defense was all about and once on offense he was hemmed in neither than a bride's tie towel for an apparent 10-yard loss by a quartet of Quakers. When the whistle tooted, however, two of the Pennsylvanians were prone, Army had a six-yard gain and Kenna had been stopped by the sidelines.

Kenna and all the rest of the grid squad have become infected with the tenseness that usually precedes the "big game." Blaik is trying to rid them of it but the Cadet corps won't let the players forget.

Bed Sheet Pleas From virtually every dormitory window hangs a bed sheet with a scathing denunciation of the Irish, or an Army exhortation.

While Lujack moves into the Notre Dame first string now that Bertelli is with the Marines at Paris Island it is unlikely that Kenna will start.

For the past week he has been working with the "second" team backfield in the rain-hampered and secret drills. He is at fullback with John Minor at left, George Troxell at right and Dale Hall calling the signals.

Glenn Davis, the early season firework of the Cadets, continues at full on the first string with Tom Lombardo at quarterback and George Maxon and Carl Anderson in the halfback slots.

'Possum Fat Goes For War Production

Davilla, Tex., Nov. 4 (AP)—It's possum-hunting time in the Post Oak country—and folks this season are taking it seriously.

Salvage-drive officials promoted a hunt, and 25 negroes and five of the town's best hound dogs showed up. By daybreak they'd treed 17 'possum and cornered five armadillos.

No traditional 'possum fat is dripping into barbecue fires, though; the grease went into war products.

NAVY BANKING ON GRID JINX TO BEAT PENN

By BOB HOFMANN

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—The jinx of Franklin field, a Jekyll and Hyde type of fellow, will be the twelfth man on the Navy's football team when it lines up against undefeated Pennsylvania before a sell-out crowd of 73,000 Saturday.

It seems this swingshift bogeyman operates against the Army when it plays Penn here—see last week's results—but turns on the home forces when the Red and Blue entertains the Navy.

The Midshipmen, 800 of whom will make the trip here by ship to watch the proceedings, are counting heavily on the jinx.

The ticket window banged shut yesterday and the Penn athletic office said every bit of space in the stadium had been sold for this clash of the Navy with its oldest major football rival.

Penn Has Series Edge

Penn has the edge in the long series which started in 1888, with 14 victories against 11 for the Navy and two ties. But since 1927, when the contest became an annual affair, Navy has won nine, lost six and tied one.

The Middles took the last two games, though they were underdogs on each occasion. And in both cases, the Navy triumphs followed Penn victories over the Army.

Coach George Munger announced yesterday that Joe Kane will be Penn's captain for the game. The veteran wingback has carried the ball 60 times for 401 yards and eight touchdowns so far this year, and he fired a touchdown pass to Frank Quillen in the Army game.

Munger's worries were eased somewhat by the work of Walter Bubien, who looks like the probable starter at right end in place of Frank Kane, who suffered a recurrence of an old shoulder injury in the Army game. Kane may be available as a replacement.

Zetty Has Cold

Lester Zetty, the former end who has become one of the east's best tackles, has been on the sidelines for two days with a heavy cold, but is expected to be ready for contact work again by tomorrow.

Ted Hapanowicz, a former tackle at George Washington university, may face Navy opposition for the second time this year. He played against the Middles for Penn State, but has been transferred here as a Marine and Munger hopes to have him sufficiently drilled in the Penn style to take over as a substitute.

PHILLIES HAVE EYE ON WALKER

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Phillies fans hope that it's true what they say about Dixie—that the Brooklyn Dodgers may trade outfielder Dixie Walker because of his reported inability to get along with Manager Leo Durocher.

The fans believe William D. Cox, get the first crack at the hard-hitting veteran because most of the president of the Phillies would talent turned loose by the Dodgers recently has headed for Philadelphia.

The club's office announced yesterday that its roster is practically complete for next year, with the exception of a catcher or two they hope to pick up. Bob Finley and Andy Seminick, a pair of 1943 rookies, are the only backstops on hand now.

Scout Ted McGraw, formerly of Brooklyn, is enthusiastic about pitcher Charley Shantz, whom the Phillies drafted from San Diego in the Pacific Coast league. Other promising mound rookies are Al Verdell, who won 36 and lost six for Camp Dix before the Army released him, and Dale Mathewson, up from Trenton in the Interstate league.

Drafting of second baseman Charley Letchas from Toronto gives the Phils six infielders, more than they had most of last season, while Willard Pike has been added to an outfield that included Ron Northley, Jim Wasdell, Coaker Triplett and Buster Adams.

Attendance, Wagers Set Track Record

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—New York's regular 180-day racing season, which ended yesterday with the finale of the Empire-at-Jamaica session, saw total wagering surpassing a similar 1942 campaign by more than $100,000,000. The increase was approximately 62 per cent.

During the stretch that began last April, $266,435,665 changed hands through the tote, as compared to $100,705,398. Daily average betting for this second war-time campaign hit $1,480,198, against 1942's $920,723.

The 1943 attendance (unofficial figures pending final count) came to 3,335,607, or an average of 18,531. Last year, the turnstiles clicked 2,683,176 times, or 14,906 daily. The breakage (odd cents retained by State and the tracks) also jumped, this year's total hitting $1,979,878.73 to top last season's $1,290,060.97.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I have finally taken time to express my thanks to you for being so faithful in sending me The Gettysburg Times paper.

It has meant a great deal to me to read the news from my home and have found out that nothing is better than civilian life.

The Navy life was fine until they transferred me from Great Lakes to Newport. The weather is awfully cold and the living conditions are different since we now sleep in hammocks.

The camp is mostly made up of service school students but have met no one yet that I know. The school is a tough course and nearly everyone wishes they were out at sea but things can't be too easy all our life.

I have used all my spare time now to write letters and I must go to my afternoon classes.

Keep up your work by sending the Adams county service men the paper for they all enjoy reading it.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Sir:

Will write you a line to let you know my address is now changed. I still get my paper but it takes a little longer, so if you please just change it to address below. I was going to write you sooner but I was pretty busy since I got here to Ft. Benning, Georgia. Sure is a nice place here. The post is just the same as a town. I wish a lot of people from good old Adams county could see it. Well I am not in the Lucky Seventh Armored Division now, but I will say it is a great outfit and where it lands you will hear that the Lucky Seventh always leads. Tell all the folks back there hello and good luck to all. You know Georgia is a great peach state. Well you sure see a lot of them, but not on trees. Will close for this time.

Yours truly,

HIGGINS GAINS, LOSES PLAYER

State College, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—Bob Higgins, Penn State football coach, was cheered today by the addition to his squad of big Bill Abromitis, former Pitt fullback, but downcast over the scholastic hurdles several of his Navy trainee players must climb before Saturday's game with Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y.

"They look too good for us," said Higgins of Cornell's big Red team, adding he may lose several men this week through transfers or low classroom grades.

Abromitis, 190-pounder from Tamaqua, Pa., joined the Nittany Lions this week as a military trainee and began his orientation process by holding down the fullback assignment on the second string.

"I wouldn't be surprised if he would play a lot of football for us," said Higgins.

Lost to Penn State this week was Tad Mapanowicz, big tackle from Utica, N. Y., who transferred from the Marine training program here to pre-flight aviation at the University of Pennsylvania.

Hapanowicz may see action against Navy for the second time this year when Pennsylvania plays the Middles. He was with Penn State when the Lions lost to Navy earlier in the season.

Illegal Shifts Hurt Iowa State

Ames, Ia., Nov. 4 (AP)—Coach Mike Michalske wants his Iowa State college players to take a longer breath after shifting.

After penalties for illegal shifts were slapped on the cyclones during crucial moments of last Saturday's game, Michalske told his squad: "Hereafter, we'll pause for station identification."

Lands Same Fish That Snapped Line

Portland, Ore., Nov. 4 (AP)—Fishing in the Necanicum river, Gordon Nelson hooked a whopper that broke the line.

Nelson rigged up new tackle and tried again. He landed an 18-pound Silverside salmon.

It was the same fish, hooked in the spreader of the broken tackle.

Gettysburg Times service edition weekly, and notice you have changed my address. Now it has been changed again, just Barracks T1731.

Arrived here September 28 and started to air mechanics school October 4. So far I have liked the mechanical course fine. It takes 130 days in all to finish the course.

This state is quite different from good old Pennsylvania. You can look for miles in all directions and not see a large tree, hill or mountain. This is what is called the panhandle of the state.

News from home is of great interest to me as it is to everyone in service. So far sending me the Times, may I thank the Gettysburg Times and the office force for making the Service Edition possible for all service men of good old Adams county.

I remain yours,

Dear Sir:

I am writing you a long delayed letter. I wish to thank you for sending me the service edition of The Times while I was in the states. After I sailed my mother subscribed for the paper for me. Sometimes the paper is a month old, but I still enjoy reading it through. By the paper I can see what is going on around good old Gettysburg. It also keeps me informed where my friends are stationed.

I am not located, just somewhere in the South Pacific. I suppose the weather around Gettysburg is getting rather cool. Where we are it is very hot. Again I wish to thank you for sending me the paper. I want to thank all my friends

Today's Talk

THE OLD OVERCOAT

Now that the season of the year has arrived when a warm overcoat becomes like an old friend returned with cheer and warmth in his heart, I shall dedicate this small space to a brief talk about old overcoats.

I have, for instance, several—and they are all old. Yes, old in service and old in association, for each in its turn has travelled many a distance with me, and often alone. Through rain and sunshine, through snow and cold, they have huddled close to this frame of mine. Oft served as pillow companion, as well as added blanket at night, each has performed its function—that for which it was created.

The old suit, after faithfully serving its time, is set aside or given away; but the old overcoat has too much familiarity and affection seeping through every thread of its make-up to be too rudely cast off, or to be shoved into forgetfulness and oblivion. Its every repair is marked as a footnote—and the more repairs the more precious is its history and association—like those footnotes in books that add spice to the instances of the page that is read.

Like an old hat that has weathered storm after storm, the old overcoat gathers to itself a certain patina, adapting to itself certain characteristics of its owner and clinging to them, as though proud of the fact. An old overcoat has personality and character that no new coat can imitate!

Of course, all old overcoats were once new overcoats, just the same as all old men were once new babies, but in each case the story between is the important one. We wouldn't be a baby again, nor would we have that old overcoat of ours a new one again—we would have to drop out too much of life, love, experience, and all those endless things that weave themselves into the fabric of our being.

So we proudly get out the old overcoat and wear it to our work. Winter will soon be on the hop. (This, of course, in our northern clime.) Last year we decided upon a new overcoat—but we changed our mind this year when we found how warm and friendly the old one is!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Thoughtfulness."

MINERS TRICKLE BACK TO WORK; STRIKE ENDED

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The nation's coal mines returned slowly to production today, released from the grip of a paralyzing three-day strike by an agreement increasing the bituminous miners' earnings at least $1.50 a day or about $11.50 for a six-day week.

The miners, after virtually ignoring the appeal of President Roosevelt to report for work yesterday, started back to the pits on orders of John L. Lewis, president, and other officers of the United Mine Workers who advised them of a "satisfactory agreement" with Secretary of the Interior Ickes, the U. S. fuels boss.

The war labor board said it would consider the agreement "first thing" today.

Part of the soft coal wage boost is accounted for by cutting the lunch hour from 30 minutes to 15. Underground travel time also is to be recompensed after 40 hours a week. Ickes and Lewis fixed the travel time at 45 minutes a day. There is a question whether the WLB would accept this flat formula for all mines because travel time varies considerably.

The agreement also took in the hard coal miners.

Anthracite miners are allowed an additional 37.8 cents a day under the pact. Added to the 32.2 cents allowed by the WLB last week under its little steel formula, the total cash increase is 70 cents a day. Concessions approved by the WLB in the form of free tools are not included in either totals. They are estimated to be worth 20 to 25 cents a day for all miners.

While the reaction among the miners was generally favorable, actual coal digging was slow to get under way. Normal production before next week was considered unlikely at many mines.

The basis of settlement provided no simple, categorical answer to the simple question, "Who won?"

Higher Coal Prices

If the WLB approves, it will do so under its own interpretation of the wage stabilization policy. The miners will get more money but it will mean increased working time in most cases. They will get paid for underground travel time, but only after 40 hours a week. Another possible result is higher coal prices, a factor the agreement did not mention. Increases probably would vary between 15 and 45 cents a ton.

The new soft coal work day is 8 1/2 hours, portal to portal, which is the time the miner spends producing coal and traveling to and from his place of work underground. Eight hours of this is measured as productive time and three-quarters of an hour as travel time. The old 7-hour day was all productive time. The effect on the miner is this: He receives $8.50 a day instead of $7 and agrees to dig coal an hour longer for the increase. This is consonant with the old contract which provided time and a half after 7 hours a day.

In case of anthracite miners, no portal-to-portal problem is involved. Their present productive day is undisturbed except for the reduction in lunch period for "day and monthly" men. Those paid on a time basis rather than output.

Harrisburger Dies At Breakfast Table

Harrisburg, Nov. 4 (AP)—Ross A. Hickok, 67, Harrisburg industrialist and former Yale athlete, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage shortly after he was stricken at the family breakfast table.

He was president of the Hickok Manufacturing company, makers of paper ruling machines. In college he was a guard on the Yale football teams of 1896 and 1897. He also ran on the track team.

His widow, the former Miss Helen Hastings, is the daughter of former Governor Daniel H. Hastings. Two daughters and a son in the armed forces also survive.

Seminary Ridge, returned Sunday from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Young, of Pittsburgh.

Miss Kate Gilbert, Springs avenue, is spending some time in Pottsville.

William Troxell and John P. Butt, Esq., attended to Princeton-Navy football game in Baltimore on Saturday.

A "little boy and little girl" party was held on Tuesday evening at the Quaker Valley Country club.

'Broke' Case

Wayne Lonergan, RCAF cadet, confessed the slaying of his wife, Patricia, according to New York police, shortly after being confronted with Maurice Worcester (above), former Army private from Bridgeport, Conn. Lonergan's alibi for the time of the slaying hung on his story of having been with a soldier named Worcester—a tale which he later admitted was fictitious.

YOUTH IS HELD FOR SLAYING OF GRANDMOTHER

Wayne, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—Fifteen year old Leonard Marcus of the Bronx, was arrested here today on a technical charge of homicide in the strangulation killing of his 75 year old step-grandmother, Mrs. Jennie Flicker, whose body was found in a closet in her Bronx home yesterday, a pillow case knotted around her neck.

Capt. Wilmer Clemence of the Radnow township police said Marcus, a nervous pimply-faced high school boy hunted in eight states since the slaying, signed a statement saying Mrs. Flicker surprised him while he was taking money from a bedroom drawer and that:

"Choked Her"

"I got so mad that I grabbed her by the neck and started to choke her. Then afterwards she didn't move and I put her in the closet."

A policeman detained Marcus as "suspicious" as he stood near a downtown mail box at 7:45 a. m. today, Clemence said. Taken to police headquarters, he was recognized by other policemen who had seen his picture accompanying newspaper stories of the killing. The police captain said "he talked in full" after the recognition.

GOP LEADING IN KENTUCKY FOR GOVERNOR

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 4 (AP)—Maintaining his advantage throughout the night, Simeon S. Willis, Republican, continued today to lead his Democratic opponent, J. Lyter Donaldson, by 5,238 votes in their contest for governor of Kentucky.

Unofficial reports from all but 306 of the state's precincts gave Willis 256,833 votes to 251,595 for Donaldson. Among the unreported precincts were 250 in Jefferson county (Louisville), which normally is Democratic but in which Willis was leading by 289 votes.

Although Donaldson was trailing Willis, the remainder of the Democratic nominees for state-wide offices held a slight lead over their Republican opponents on the basis of returns from nearly as many precincts as reported in the governor's race.

Overcomes 12,000 Lead

Democratic leaders did not concede the election.

Willis, Ashland attorney and former judge of the state Court of Appeals, took the first lead but Donaldson, Carrollton lawyer and banker and former state highway commissioner, forged ahead and held his advantage until yesterday afternoon.

At one time Donaldson was 12,000 votes ahead. Then Willis began a steady climb which put him out in front in the closest gubernatorial contest Kentucky has seen in more than 25 years.

The last Republican governor in Kentucky was Flem D. Sampson, who served from 1927 to 1931.

Philadelphia suburb yesterday and stayed at the fashionable Wayne hotel overnight, Clemence reported.

The body of the aged but energetic woman was found late yesterday afternoon by her daughter, Mrs. Anna Marcus, in her sixth floor apartment. Police said they found the grandmother's body in a kneeling position in a closet, back to the door. Investigators said $65 was missing from a living room desk.

Sends Telegram

Last night Leonard's parents reported they had received a telegram from Philadelphia reading: "Sorry for what happened. Letter will follow. Will repay you, Leonard."

With the boy when Wayne police picked him up was a companion and fellow high school student, Milton Rudnitsky, 17, of the Bronx, police said.

An autopsy showed, police reported, that Mrs. Flicker died of strangulation and possible hemorrhage from a fracture of a bone in the throat. This, they said, could have been caused by the pillowcase or by manual pressure.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Wins Second Time Over Dead Opponent

Waynesburg, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—For the second time Frank Throckmorton, Republican, has been elected district attorney of Greene county over a Democratic candidate who died on the Saturday preceding the election.

Final results showed Throckmorton won over Albert M. Nichols, who died suddenly last week, by a 355 vote—4,505 to 4,107, thus repeating a victory over Capt. Ralph B. Purman eight years ago.

Electric Irons To Be Produced Again

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Electric irons but no electric washing machines are on the list of consumer goods tentatively scheduled for civilian production in the first quarter of 1944.

While acknowledging that home laundry equipment is one of the worst needed home front items, War Production officials said today that the supply of small electric motors is too tight to permit resumption of washing machine manufacture now.

MUST TRAVEL FAST

Akron, Ohio, Nov. 4 (AP)—Deprived of the use of his automobile for 60 days after being charged by Office of Price Administration officials with speeding 70 miles per hour, the Rev. Dallas F. Billington, pastor of the Akron Baptist Temple, remarked: "You have to travel fast these days to save souls."

May Call Special Session To Change Soldier Vote Law

Harrisburg, Nov. 4 (AP)—Governor Martin today hinted at the possibility of a special session of the legislature in the fore part of next year to improve soldier voting statutes.

"The department of state is giving consideration to improvement of a plan for soldier voting," the governor told his press conference.

"Anything that will make it possible for a greater number of people to vote is reason enough for a special session. We want people to vote in the United States."

Martin explained any change in the present absentee voting law would require approval of the legislature.

He, however, asserted that there are no problems which would require an immediate call for a special session.

SHORTAGE OF PHYSICIANS IS REPORTED

Gettysburg, with five practicing physicians, now has about 1,200 persons for each physician in town but if the rural area about the town, served by the local doctors, is considered the ratio is much higher.

In addition to the five physicians conducting general practice there is one doctor confining his services to surgical duties at the Warner hospital while a seventh is retired.

Some other sections of the county are harder hit by the scarcity of physicians than Gettysburg. In the entire section of the county from Fairfield to York Springs there are only two practicing physicians—one at Arendtsville and one at Bendersville. There is one at Fairfield and one at York Springs. Several years ago there were two at Fairfield, one at Cashtown, two at Arendtsville, one at Biglerville, one at Bendersville and two or three at York Springs.

CIO Leader Is For Roosevelt In '44

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the political action committee of the CIO, told the CIO national convention today that if the 1944 presidential election were a few months away he would be ready to commit himself for a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

Thunderous applause followed the remark.

"No organization can commit itself in 1943 for 1944, but if the election were within a few months I would still raise my voice for the sake of the nation for the nomination and election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt," Hillman said.

"We will make our commitments for 1944 in 1944. And I hope by then that we will have enough power to make ourselves heard before the nominating."

OPA Won't Permit Any Interference

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Commenting on reports that two agents of the Office of Price Administration were ejected from a farmers' market at Shillington, Pa., a spokesman said the OPA would take criminal action against anyone interfering with its investigation.

He said the operator of the market argued with the OPA agents but "he neither led nor pushed an investigator out a side door."

NAZIS EXPECT NEW INVASION IN SO. FRANCE

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ

Madrid, Nov. 4 (AP)—Reports of the movement of strong German forces into southern France this week and elaborate defense preparations being taken along the Riviera give every indication that Berlin believes an Allied offensive against southern France is imminent.

These preparations are on such a scale that the Riviera coastal road has been closed to passenger traffic between Menton and San Rafael and the German labor corps has been moving freight around the closed area, where new fortifications apparently are being erected.

Travelers from France reported that the movement of German troops toward the south appeared general. They also declared that all cities in southern France, including some as far inland as Avignon and Carcassonne, are the scenes of great activity.

Expect "Break"

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—Reports of Allied troop concentrations of German coastal garrisons from Toulon, France, to Leghorn, Italy, Charles Foltz, Associated Press correspondent, said in an NBC broadcast last night from Madrid.

"Something with a capital 'S' is expected to break very soon along that part of the Mediterranean coastline," Foltz said.

"Nearly 2,000 Italian Badoglio troops hold the mountains behind Monte Carlo and Nice, threatening the narrow German corridor between Italy and France, and more anti-Nazi Italians are organizing," he added.

JAPS DEMAND BETTER FOOD IN WAR CAMP

San Francisco, Nov. 4 (AP)—Dillon S. Myer, national director of the War Relocation Authority, says a demonstration by a crowd of Japanese at the Tule Lake Segregation Center Monday was a bid by disloyal leaders to be the first sent back to Japan.

In the first official account of what happened at the center, Myer told interviewers at Seattle that the Japanese at the Tule Lake Center in northern California all are subject to return to their homeland.

By obvious subversive activity, Myer said, certain leaders hoped they would be the first returned.

Hold Mass Meeting

At first one WRA official said the incident was inconsequential, but last night interviewers were given a different picture.

Myer said an angry crowd of Japanese seized the Administration building and carried on a three-hour mass meeting in their native tongue while keeping 75 government employees inside virtual prisoners.

Orville Crays, WRA Public Welfare consultant from Washington, said that at 1:30 p. m., he saw a crowd of Japanese—"I guess there were four or six thousand"—surrounding the building.

Myer and Ray West, project director, spoke over a public address system, Crays said, "but didn't make any commitments." He added that "I wouldn't say the crowd ever was threatening, but that 'I would have hesitated to have tried to leave the building without a good reason.'"

Surgeon Beaten

Robert Cozzens, western field director for WRA, said a Japanese committee demanded "better food" and more of it, called for a change in administration personnel and asked what was to be done about the

GOP Expects 40 To 50 Pennsylvania Counties To Swing Into Victory Ranks

TAYLOR SEES "FINE START" FOR PRESIDENT

Harrisburg, Nov. 4 (AP)—Republican leaders today predicted 40 to 50 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties will be recorded in final vote tabulations as giving their party local victories and read into Tuesday's election returns a dazzling prospect of 1944 presidential and congressional triumphs.

Miss Louise Anderson, in charge of the Republican State Committee's own check-up, said, "I'd say we will wind up with from 40 to 50 counties."

Governor Martin, who predicted many weeks ago that GOP candidates would win in 50 counties, called the election results "most gratifying."

Jubilant State Republican Chairman M. Harvey Taylor declared: "It's a fine start to elect a Republican president next year."

GOP Predictions
In Washington, Representative Ritter, chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, said of his home state's election: "It can be definitely forecast that the people in 1944 will elect a Republican Congress."

David L. Lawrence, state Democratic chairman, declined comment.

Democrats made their most impressive showing in western Pennsylvania where normally Democratic Allegheny county repulsed a Republican bid to gain control of the county commission.

But all major plums fell in the Republican basket.

In Philadelphia, Bernard Samuel, incumbent mayor, sailed into a full term by swamping his Democratic opponent, William C. Bullitt, who had the support of President Roosevelt. Samuel polled 345,755 votes to 281,558 for Bullitt, former ambassador to France and Russia.

The victorious Samuel called his election a triumph for home rule and declared "voters served notice that they are capable of selecting municipal officers without outside assistance." Bullitt said he regretted his defeat because "I consider the issues involved vital to the welfare of our people."

Reno Beats Bok
In the only state-wide race, Republican Superior Court Judge Claude T. Reno won a full 10-year term by defeating Judge Curtis Bok, of the Philadelphia County Court.

Republicans won majority races in 20 of the 27 third class cities where the post was at stake while Democrats captured six positions. At Reading, J. Henry Stump, Socialist, was elected. Thirteen Republican and five Democratic mayors were re-elected.

Tuesday's voting brought re-election to 37 county judges and defeat to six sitting judges. Twenty-seven judges won another term with the support of both major parties. Forty-eight positions were at stake.

Then Ganter returned to remove loaded 50 caliber machine guns. He won the Soldier's Medal. Such are the men your War Bonds fight beside.

MOSCOW PACT SEEN AS GREAT BLOW TO AXIS

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The sweeping Moscow agreement was viewed here Tuesday as the greatest single blow to German hopes of victory that the war has produced.

Unequivocal Allied unity—in war and after the war—now confronts a beleaguered Nazi regime which recently has placed all its chips on prolonging the conflict by dividing the Allies against themselves.

The reply from Moscow seems to be clear. There is no division, and it is the sense of the four power conference that there shall be none.

Secretary of State Hull, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, said the joint communiqué, had military experts along who discussed definite operations "already decided upon and now being prepared" to create a basis for the closest military cooperation in the future among Britain, Russia and the United States.

Historic Milestone
The announcement, made simultaneously in Moscow, London and Washington, apparently burst upon the Nazis before they could prepare ready made propaganda counterblasts.

In a silence which appeared paralytic, the Nazi radio said nothing of the momentous Moscow decisions for several hours except to quote straight from British broadcasts.

While the conference is regarded as likely to hasten the end of the war by confronting the Germans with a wall of Allied unity and by stirring up rebellion against the Nazis all over Europe, the four-power joint declaration in which China joined is considered here to be the historic milestone for which the meeting will be remembered the longest.

The four powers, China, Russia,

Seven Communities Vote Sunday Movies

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Seven municipalities in Pennsylvania voted in favor of Sunday movies and one decided to continue the ban on them.

Greenville, in Mercer county, which now prohibits Sunday shows, voted against opening theatres on the Sabbath.

Voting in favor of Sunday performances were Laureldale, Berks county; Wyalusing and Athens, Bradford county; Monroe township, Cumberland county; Carmichael, Green county; Boswell, Somerset county, and Port Carbon, Schuylkill county.

All except Port Carbon now prohibit Sunday shows.

Britain and America, "recognize the necessity of establishing at the earliest practicable date a general international organization, based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all peace loving states, and open to membership by all such states, large and small, for the maintenance of international peace and security."

HULL PLEASED WITH MEETING

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Nov. 4 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull views the achievements of the Moscow conference, which established a broad basis for post-war political and economic cooperation, as rendering impossible any isolationism on the part of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union.

He is gratified, he said, that Soviet leaders, turning away from isolationism, have accepted what he described as a policy of moderate international cooperation.

And recalling the pre-war aloofness of the United States, he expressed the belief that people everywhere now are convinced of the necessity for practical international cooperation to avert another war.

This cooperation, he said, would take concrete form in London in a few weeks when the new European advisory commissions created by the conference, assemblies to continue the work of the Moscow meeting. This body, composed of high permanent officials from the State Department of each of the three major powers, will take up matters pertaining to winning the war, settling the peace and seeing that the peace is kept after victory.

Chapter 18

It had been quite a day at the office. For the first time since Sally had met Ted, the work had absorbed her complete attention, and it was nearly 5 o'clock before she realized with a start that tonight Ted was coming to town.

Most revolutionary of all had been the change that Ted had unwittingly made in Sally's attitude toward her job. She had always enjoyed her work with Langhorne tremendously. In fact, the room-mates often teased her because she started off to work with such enthusiasm each morning. And Sally had to laugh at herself because she was so happy in her job.

If Langhorne noticed the difference in his once-dependable secretary, he said nothing. Once or twice he sent letters back when she'd made mistakes, but with no comment. He didn't even say anything when she bowed up his luncheon appointment completely one day, and had him cooling his heels at the Raleigh while Stinton of the Board of Economic Warfare was searching impatiently for him at the Willard.

Firing would have been too good for her after that, Sally thought in a moment of soul-searching. But try as she would, she couldn't keep her mind on her work. And to tell Langhorne what the trouble was would have been silly, when he had the farmers, the industrialists, the Army, the Navy and half the War Commission on his neck over the synthetic rubber program. Right now young love would have seemed particularly out of place.

But today Langhorne had held his first press conference, and the session had been so exciting, and Sally had been so busy making a record of every remark, that Ted's handsome presence hadn't hovered over everything she did. There'd been plenty of discussion beforehand as to whether Langhorne should even hold a press conference. He'd always fought shy of personal publicity, and was something of a dark horse to the reporters, who were accordingly more eager than ever for an interview. One of Sally's first chores had been to learn to say "no" nicely to the press.

But the subject was pulled to pieces by the War Commission experts until it was worn to a thread, and finally the yeses won out. It was an exciting meeting. Sally didn't remember all the men who turned up, but most of them knew her.

Langhorne had been at his best, his dry wit salting his answers to the penetrating questions the reporters flashed. He spoke to them frankly, told them some of his problems in an off-the-record description of the fence he was supposed to walk in his handling of rubber. When the men poured out, Sally had the feeling they approved of her boss—largely because they'd been given facts instead of the all-too-frequent run-around.

There was a stack of work that had piled up while Sally was at the meeting. She was hard at work on a chart over which Langhorne had labored for nearly a week when she realized how late it was. For a moment she sat considering the pile of untranscribed sheets in front of her. It would be well after seven before she was finished—if she worked at top speed at that. Ted expected to meet her at seven. They were planning to have dinner before going to see "This Is the Army." Sally had spent all her Saturday lunch hour standing in line for the tickets.

Perhaps she could leave a message at the Willard to have Ted pick her up at the office. That would save a trip to the hotel. They could even eat a quick sandwich and go directly to the theater. She dialed the hotel. Yes, the clerk said, he would have Sgt. Scott call her.

Relieved, she rushed at her work, her fingers flying over the keys. Six-thirty, six forty-five. It was five after seven when Ted called her. Sally's voice fairly sang over the wire when she heard him. As she hung up, Langhorne came into the office. "I couldn't help hearing your conversation. Is this work making it necessary for you to cancel an engagement?"

Sally gave him a grateful smile. "No, Mr. Langhorne. And even if it did, I've been causing you so much trouble lately, I'd feel guilty if I didn't get this finished." She watched the slow smile that gave distinction to Langhorne's quiet face. "I'd like to tell him about Ted. Not to justify my slips in the work, but just because he's so darned nice. Langhorne had a daughter, she knew, though he never said much about his family.

She smiled a little shyly. "My soldier is coming over to pick me up soon, and I'd like so much to have him meet you, if you are still here."

"I'd be glad to. Without presuming to pry into your affairs, is the soldier pretty important to you?" Sally said in a rush. "I think so. That's why I've let you down so badly these last weeks. My mind has been on the Army, I'm afraid." She felt very proud of her particular part of the Army when Ted stroled into the office a half hour later, his cap cocked at a gay angle. He somehow managed to wear his uniform with the easy grace of a man who'd spent most of his life in casual, well-cut tweed suits. Sally thought he looked wonderful. Her face was radiant as she came around the desk to meet him.

There was laughter in Ted's eyes. "Don't look like that or I'll kiss you right where you stand."

Sally backed away out of reach. "Sorry, sir, it's against office regulations. She picked up her hat. "I'm all through now. Oh, Ted, come meet my boss before we go."

She opened Langhorne's door quietly. "Can Ted say hello to you, Mr. Langhorne? Ted, this is Mr. Langhorne, who is a very superior boss." She pulled Ted around the edge of the door as Langhorne came forward cordially.

Then he stopped dead still. Sally, startled, looked up at Ted and was amazed to see he had gone as white as her dress. For one ghastly moment they all were frozen in their places like puppets left behind on the stage after the performance is over.

Then Langhorne blurted, "My God, Burrows, you!"

Chapter 19

The most horrible part of that meeting between Ted and Langhorne was that both of them recovered from the impact of the shock almost immediately, and started pretending there was nothing wrong. Sally wanted to strike out at them, to scream, Stop trying to protect me. Tell me what is the matter. What is it? Why are you both so upset?

But both men ran for the protecting cover of convention. Langhorne, with the smoothness of an acrobat who recovers agilely when his foot inadvertently slips from the trapeze, managed to say quite calmly, "I knew Ted back in New York, Miss Thayer. It's quite a surprise to see him in uniform."

Sally identified the look that slid into Ted's eyes as gratitude for his deliverance. And along with the horror of that unexplainable moment she was conscious of a sudden flash of contempt for Ted. He's letting Langhorne save his face. Then confidence born of her love for Ted came back in a guilty flood.

All she wanted to do now was to get out of Langhorne's office as fast as possible. She wanted to hear Ted's voice reassuring her, giving her some perfectly reasonable explanation for Langhorne's amazement. She wanted to feel Ted's arm strongly around her as they both laughed at some silly episode back in the past. By the time they said goodbye to Langhorne, the color had come back to Ted's face, but Sally, whose heart had memorized his every look, saw his lips were still tightly drawn against the shock of that unexpected meeting.

To compensate, she reached for his hand in the empty elevator, and held it tightly. Ted managed to grin down at her. "How did the career woman do today?" Sally was glad to be back on steady ground. There would be plenty of time later that evening for explanations. She gave a picture of the press conference that had been such fun. But though Ted laughed at all the right places, she knew his attention wasn't focused on her at all. The surprise of that meeting with Langhorne was still in the front of his mind. And even the familiar joy of being with Ted couldn't dispell the cold, clammy finger of fear that nudged Sally.

But he didn't say a word about it. They went through their usual routine. Ted took her home on the street car, and they sat together on the steps of Sally's brownstone house for a final cigarette. The soft darkness wrapped around them like a protecting cloak. It was the perfect moment for the overdue explanation. And if it had come, Sally would have been at peace with the world. But it didn't.

Ted pulled his cigarette in short, strained pulls. Their conversation, sputtered, then died away entirely. Finally Ted got to his feet. "Well, tomorrow's another day. You'd better get some sleep, honey." The words were right, but the tone was wrong.

"Sally couldn't stand it any longer. "Ted, aren't you going to tell me? Why was my boss so upset to see you?"

Ted laughed. "Oh, that. Why, I'd forgotten all about it. Langhorne doesn't think much of me because he saw me take a little to much one night at a party. That's all. I'd forgotten the whole silly business. Guess I must have been out of step that night. Now I think of it, I did have a sweet hangover the next day."

Relief flooded Sally like a gigantic wave. "I'm such a dope. It's just that it was so unlike Mr. Langhorne to be startled by anything. And he certainly acted peculiar when I sprung you on him."

Ted put a finger under her chin. "All right now?" His kiss blotted out her answer. "Well, we'd better call it a day. I think I'll be down Friday night, but I'll call you at the office to make sure ahead of time."

Sally was on top of the world when she walked into the office the next morning. She had the mail opened and sorted neatly when Langhorne came in.

Sally greeted him so cheerfully that he stopped for a second at her desk. "You seem to be very happy this morning, Miss Thayer."

"I guess I am. We saw 'This Is the Army' last night and it was very good. And Ted told me why you were both surprised to see each other."

Langhorne looked at her sharply. "He told you, did he?" Sally, unconscious of the look, smiled at him. "Yes, he says he didn't behave himself too well at some New York party."

"Oh, yes, I remember that." There was a pause. Then Langhorne collected himself. "Shall we get started on the letters? You seem to have everything ready."

Sally stood staring at him. Langhorne almost had a poker face—but not quite. There was something else, she was sure of it. Something more than Ted's drinking too much once. Nobody, Langhorne least of all, would mind a slip like that.

She had to know. She faced Langhorne resolutely. "Mr. Langhorne, was there something else? I wish you'd tell me."

The man moved slowly to the window, and for a moment stood silently watching the crowds of people hurrying along the sidewalk to the War Commission building. Then he said, "You put me in a very difficult position, Miss Thayer. I unwittingly showed surprise when I met your young man, for which I am very sorry. But he has your confidence. Any explanations should come from him."

"But he doesn't explain." Sally's voice was pleading. "There must have been something pretty important to make you look at Ted the way you did. And perhaps he feels it's too silly to tell me. But if it is something I should know, for the sake of Ted's happiness and mine, I wish you would tell me. You can help if you do." She was gripping her hands so tightly together the knuckles showed white.

Langhorne stood for a second turning his hat around in his hand. "Will you tell me something? Has Ted asked you to marry him?"

The flush burned painfully in Sally's face. She shook her head. "Then I'll tell you." Langhorne looked carefully away from her.

"My daughter was once engaged to Ted. She broke the engagement because she finally saw that Ted is nothing but a good-looking playboy, harmless but unreliable."

In the quiet room Sally's choked gasp sounded as shattering as a falling bomb.

ARNOLD TELLS "OPEN SECRET" OF NEW BOMBER

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Army's worst-kept secret, the new Boeing B-29 heavy bomber, finally emerged today from under wraps.

It is alright now to say there is a B-29.

General H. H. Arnold, air forces chief, let the cat out of the bag in a speech last December 13.

Two weeks later a group of reporters got a complete description of the new super-bomber during a visit to Wright Field, Ohio. They were not permitted to write anything about it, and didn't.

But in May, Executive Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson of the War Production Board, referred to scheduled production of the new super-bomber; the Army weekly "Yank" mentioned it, and named it B-29, in July; Arnold wrote around the subject again in an article for the magazine Army Ordnance; an aviation magazine came out in print with it in August; Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker told all at a conference in India.

Now it's out.

Now, at last, Arnold speaks right out in a formal statement:

"We now have a super-bomber x x x it is the B-29 x x x evolved in secrecy during the past several years."

"This battleship of the air," Arnold said, "is armored heavily with multiple-gun and power turrets. It can fly at very high altitudes."

"Its performance will not be discussed before it enters combat. However, the B-29 will have a range substantially greater than the maximum effective range of today's longest-range heavy bomber and it will carry quite sizeable bomb loads for that distance."

"When it enters combat, today's long range will become medium range and today's heavy bombers will consequently become light heavies."

The final test of the B-29 is not now far distant, he said.

Hoover To Testify
On Feeding Europe

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senate backers of a ship-food-to-Europe resolution, laying particular emphasis on the needs of hungry children in Axis occupied lands, looked to Herbert Hoover today for confirmation that their proposal is practicable.

The former president, U. S. food administrator in World War I and chairman of the commission for relief in Belgium from 1914 to 1919, arranged to testify before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee on a resolution by Senators Gillette (D-Iowa) and Taft (R-Ohio).

"There's not much use in fighting to free those people if they're all going to be dead before they get free," Taft observed as the committee assembled.

Milk Producers Ask Immediate Increase

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—Major milk producer representatives laid before Congress today a legislative program calling for an immediate increase of slightly more than one cent a quart in retail milk prices and an end to government subsidies.

Directly counter to President Roosevelt's appeal this week for continuance of the war food subsidy program the proposed bill would require the OPA to boost ceiling prices of all dairy products the equivalent of 50 cents per hundred pounds of whole milk.

The National Cooperative Milk Producers' Association estimated these emergency price increases would cost consumers $149,000,000 for the initial four-month period to which they would apply. After 120 days, the OPA and the War Food Administration would be directed to adjust milk and dairy product prices on a regional or market basis to reflect increases in production costs.

4 to 8 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

Chief Fire Inspector Norman Hoke has appointed Gene Hardman and Ray Eyer as his assistants who will give special attention to the conditions of chimneys and flues.

Mrs. Clarence Fralley and daughter, Helen, 400 West Main street, are spending several days in New York city. They will return home by automobile with friends.

FATHER OF 4 IS DRAFTED

Flashes of Life

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Sixteen pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, believed to be the first drafted in Philadelphia, were inducted into the Army yesterday, and officials of the boards that called them said they appeared good-natured and willing to serve.

Some of them had been engaged in work classified as essential and semi-essential, while others had held jobs in the non-essential class.

The champion father of the group was John Coleman, 34, who has four children, the oldest 13, and the youngest a little more than a year old.

Coleman is going into the Seabees. "I'm a little short-winded but I guess they'll take that out of me," he said.

The veteran husband was Stanley Smith, 36, a bartender and cook, who has been married 19 years. He has three children, the oldest 17 and the youngest nine.

Mrs. Smith said, "I feel swell about it. Any healthy man ought to go, no matter how many children he has, provided his family won't go hungry."

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

On the far side of a knoll exposed to enemy guns in the Solomon, one of Pfc. Rondell Lyons' comrades was wounded. Marine Private Lyons brought him in. Another man was hit. Lyons brought him, too, to safety. The injured men were thirsty. But all canteens were empty, and the Japs had the only water hole covered. Lyons went out in the face of continuous Jap fire and brought back water for his comrades. For this he wears the Silver Star. He risked his life for his fellows. The least we can do is buy more War Bonds for them.

What he wants: "Nice house-keeper . . . not a barroom fly." What he offers: "Everything she needs to keep her happy. Groceries delivered to door . . . nice new car . . . dancing, hunting, boating, fishing. . . . She'll never get lonesome." The mayor said he's looking everywhere.
